

About the Instructors

False Allegations of Rape and Sexual Assault by Adolescents and Adults:
What Does the Research Say?

Hollida Wakefield, M.A. is a forensic psychologist in private practice in Northfield, Minnesota. She has published books and articles and made conference presentations in the areas of psychology and law, the nature of memory, sexual abuse allegations, child interviews, and non-voluntary confessions,

Forensic Assessment of Child Sexual Abuse Allegations

Kristine M. Jacquin earned a B.S. at Northwestern University, and her M.A. and Ph.D. in clinical psychology at the University of Texas at Austin. Dr. Jacquin is a Professor of Psychology and Director of Clinical Training at Fielding Graduate University. She is also a licensed clinical psychologist with a consulting practice focusing on forensic and neuropsychological evaluations.

Michelle M. Tatum earned a B.A. at University of Missouri-Columbia in Philosophy and Peace Studies, a M.S. at Florida International University in Counseling Psychology, and a M.A. at Fielding Graduate University in Clinical Psychology. She is independently licensed as a professional clinical counselor. She is currently a clinical psychology doctoral student at Fielding Graduate University and project manager in the forensic neuropsychology lab of Dr. Jacquin.

Sexually Dangerous No Longer? Massachusetts Sexual Recidivism Data on Sex Offenders Released from Civil Commitment

Joseph J. Plaud, Ph.D. is a clinical and forensic psychologist whose graduate training was primarily focused on behavioral assessment and therapy, with specific emphasis on working with forensic clinical populations. He received his Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) degree in psychology in 1987 from Clark University in Worcester, Massachusetts, summa cum laude, Phi Beta Kappa, with High Honors in Psychology. His undergraduate minors were in philosophy and American history. Dr. Plaud then enrolled as a graduate student at the University of Maine, in Orono, Maine, where he received his Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) in clinical psychology in 1993, after completing his clinical internship at the University of Mississippi and Jackson Department of Veterans Affairs Medical Centers in Jackson, Mississippi, serving as Chief Psychology Resident. Dr. Plaud then joined the clinical psychology faculty at the University of North Dakota in 1993, where he was actively involved in the training of clinical and experimental psychology graduate students in their Ph.D. programs, as well as pursuing his teaching and research activities in psychology, including behavior analysis, behavior modification and therapy, behavioral assessment, and sexual behavior.

Returning to his native Massachusetts in early 1998, Dr. Plaud served as the Director of Research for the Cambridge Center for Behavioral Studies, and was also appointed a Visiting Scholar of Human Development at Brown University in Providence, Rhode Island. In 2001 he founded Applied Behavioral Consultants, LLC, and serves as its Executive Director. Dr. Plaud provides clinical and forensic psychological services within the United States and internationally involving clinical and forensic cases, lecturing widely in these areas of psychology and the law. Dr. Plaud is also a Fellow of the American Psychological Association.

Additionally, Dr. Plaud has studied, written and lectured in the philosophical and historical foundations of psychology, with particular interests in the theoretical underpinnings of behaviorism, behavior analysis, and behavior therapy, and the accurate dissemination of behavior analysis in public forums. Dr. Plaud has published and lectured widely in the assessment and treatment of sexual offenders, and his opinion is frequently sought in forensic cases in state and federal courts across the United States.

Dr. Plaud was honorably discharged from the United States Naval Reserve with the rank of Lieutenant Commander in the Medical Service Corps. He further served as a Trustee of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Presidential Library and Museum. Between 2002 and 2008 Dr. Plaud founded and administered an American history museum in Worcester, Massachusetts dedicated to the lives and legacies of Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt and the New Deal. Among Dr. Plaud's many other personal, professional, and educational interests, he is currently pursuing graduate studies in sacred theology at Saint Joseph's College in Standish, Maine.

Trauma Assessment in Children & Adolescents: Assessment, Diagnoses,
Treatment, and Special Considerations

Rebecca Smith-Casey received a JD from Villanova School of Law and her PsyD in Combined School and Clinical Psychology from Kean University. Dr. Smith-Casey has experience in a wide variety of forensic settings and developed the New Jersey Competency Assessment Tool (NJ-CAT). Her research interests focus on issues pertaining to competency to stand trial, the insanity defense, and the impact special education status has in contacts with the criminal justice system. Dr. Smith-Casey presently serves as a trauma therapist and conducts psychosexual evaluations at the Joseph J. Peters Institute in Philadelphia, PA.

Gun Violence, Mental Sickness and Psychiatric Medications: Is there a Connection?

Jamshid A. Marvasti, M.D., is a child and adult psychiatrist, and assistant clinical professor at the University of New England College of Osteopathic Medicine. He has published articles and edited books including War Trauma in Veterans and Their Families (2012), Psycho-Political Aspects of Suicide Warriors, Terrorism, and Martyrdom (2008). Dr. Marvasti may be reached at: jmarvasti@aol.com

Juvenile Waiver Evaluations: Two Cases of Murder

Michael G. Ditsky, Ph.D. has an independent practice in Sugar Land, Texas. He routinely conducts juvenile evaluations for a variety of purposes, including dispositions and waivers. He has conducted these evaluations for counties in the Gulf Coast region of Texas.

Brains on Trial

John H. White, Ph.D. is a former Dallas Police Investigator Sergeant who worked in patrol, Internal Affairs, Psychological Services Office, and the Fugitive and Special Investigations Division. He is currently a professor of psychology at Stockton University in Atlantic City, New Jersey, where he developed the forensic psychology program, and has a private practice treating mostly sex offenders and consulting on murder and rape cases for law enforcement. He is also a member of the Vidocq Society in Philadelphia, and has published a novel entitled, In Pursuit of a Serial Killer: The Archetype Case.

Evaluation of Firestarters

John Watts Podboy, Ph.D. has been practicing in state and federal courts for over 40 years, and has evaluated arsonists and others suspected of starting fires, as has Albert J.

Kastl, Ph.D. Robert Halon, Ph.D. was a Northern California Fire Chief for many years and has consulted for many years regarding arsonists and suspected arsonists.

The Role of Nomothetic and Ideographic in Evaluations of Best Interests of Children

Allan Posthuma, Ph.D. is recently retired from the practice of clinical and forensic psychology in Vancouver, Canada. He has a diplomate in both clinical and forensic psychology from the American Board of Professional Psychology. Dr. Posthuma has served on the faculties of Simon Fraser University, Royal Roads Military College, and the University of British Columbia. He has presented a number of papers on child custody and related topics and has published research papers in professional journals internationally and nationally.

Ethical Issues for Psychologists and Attorneys in Online Teaching

Penny Clemmons, Ph.D., J.D. received her BA in Clinical Psychology from the University of Illinois, her MA in Clinical Psychology from Roosevelt University, Chicago and her Ph.D. in Psychology from the Chicago School of Professional Psychology. She is licensed as a clinical psychologist by the state of California.

After two decades of clinical practice she attended law school so she could be a better forensic consultant. She fell in love with the law and upon passing the California Bar exam became a family law practitioner and is Certified as a Specialist in Family Law by the State Bar of Ca.

In addition to her mediation practice, she is an adjunct professor at the Santa Barbara and Ventura Colleges of Law and has taught several online classes there. Additionally, she teaches online at the Eisner Institute for Professional Studies and Abraham Lincoln University. A devoted proponent of online teaching presented her with new pedagogical and ethical challenges.

Among her favorite volunteer activities is her 20 years of service to the Santa Barbara Superior Court Alternative Dispute Resolution Program.

Ethical Practices in Forensic Psychology

Jerry L. Brittain, Ph.D. is a retired military psychologist with 23 years of decorated service. He has spoken at many past NCFP conferences. He has been an expert witness in countless cases, and is published in forensics. His areas of professional interest are ethics and professional practice, Traumatic Brain Injury (TBI), and school gun violence. He lives and practices in North Carolina. He currently practices at Wake Forest Baptist Hospital, and is active in the North Carolina Psychological Association on their Legislative Committee.

Effective Forensic Reports and Documentation: Pitfalls, Credibility and Evidence Rules

Andrew Mendonsa, Psy.D., MBA has provided treatment and assessment to forensic populations, including sex offenders, for over a decade. He has provided care in settings including state and federal prisons, jails, outpatient clinics, state hospitals and private practice. He is a licensed California psychologist specializing in clinical and forensic psychology. His forensic work has been used in high-profile legal cases. He conducts Conditional Release Evaluations on Sexually Violent Predators (SVPs) at Coalinga State Hospital. He has authored over 700 forensic reports including Qualified Medical Evaluations/Agreed Medical Evaluations, Court Mandated Evaluations, Second Opinions, Psychological/Suicide Autopsies, and Peace Officer Hiring and Fit-For-Duty reports. He is a Regional Director with Sharper Future overseeing two large California regions of state parole sex offender contracts. Dr. Mendonsa is responsible for the treatment and Containment Team Model adherence of almost 700 state-mandated parolees. He supervises professional, intern and student-level staff. He holds an Independent Practitioner designation from the California Sex Offender Management Board. Dr. Mendonsa is commonly featured on local and national media outlets discussing substance abuse and forensic topics. He has presented a variety of forensic topics at local, state, national and international conferences.

Tony Angelo, Psy.D. is the President of Pacific Forensic Psychology Associates, a statewide forensic corporation that specializes in the assessment and treatment of high risk Sex Offenders, outpatient treatment and evaluation of Sexually Violent Predators and other forensic populations. Dr. Angelo has appeared in court for both state and federal offenders as both a witness for the defense and the prosecution and understands the importance of the concept and the precision of forensic writing. Dr. Angelo is responsible for the treatment and Containment Team Model adherence of almost 2000 state-mandated parolees. He has authored over 400 forensic and neuropsychological reports over his career. Dr. Angelo oversees a training department and is actively engaged in providing the next generation of professionals the skills necessary to provide quality assessment and treatment to forensic populations. He holds an Independent Practitioner designation from the California Sex Offender Management Board. Prior to his career as a psychologist, Dr. Angelo worked as a training and process improvement expert in the Manufacturing world, utilizing the principles of Total Quality Management.

Andrew Wakefield, MA, LMFT has provided evaluation and treatment to clinical and forensic populations for the past several years. He has provided care in various settings including hospitals, jails, inpatient units and outpatient clinics. He currently treats offenders and the general public under diagnoses that include depression, anxiety and substance use disorders. He is licensed in California as a Marriage and Family Therapist. He is employed as a Regional Director with Sharper Future where he oversees the day-to-day forensic assessment and treatment operations in the Bay Area and the Central/Northern California Regions. Sharper Future provides forensic, mental health and substance abuse treatment to thousands of clients in California. Sharper Future holds dozens of local, state and federal treatment contracts. Mr. Wakefield works within the Containment Team Model in California to deliver innovative and evidence-based interventions to various populations. He is a state certified trainer for many clinical risk assessments. He holds an Independent Practitioner designation from the California Sex Offender Management Board. He has been featured on national podcasts speaking on forensic, mental health, and substance abuse topics. He has conducted presentations on topics including law and ethics, clinical supervision, forensic assessment, psychopathy and self-care for various law enforcement agencies, universities and both private and public organizations.

Neuroscientific Approaches to a Therapeutic Jurisprudence Model of Juvenile Sentencing

Michael L. Perlin, J.D., LL.D. (hon.) is professor emeritus at New York Law School, the co-founder of Mental Disability Law and Policy Associates, and an adjunct professor at Emory University School of Law. He practiced criminal defense law for several years, and has written 30 books and nearly 300 articles on all aspects of mental disability law, including specifically its relationship to therapeutic jurisprudence.

Alison J. Lynch, J.D. is a staff attorney with Disability Rights, New York, and she writes frequently about neuroscientific issues in the context of therapeutic jurisprudence.

Forensic Skills Workshop: The Role of the Psychologist in Civil and Criminal Litigation

Dr. Elliot Atkins (Moderator) is in private practice in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Panelists:

Elizabeth Kelley is a criminal defense attorney who specializes in representing individuals with mental illness, as well as individuals with intellectual disabilities.

Michael Perlin is Professor of Law Emeritus at New York Law School. Please see previous presentation description for detailed biography.

Gretchen von Helms is a Harvard educated lawyer who has practiced law for approximately 20 years. Since opening The Law Offices of Gretchen von Helms in 1996, she has handled numerous serious criminal cases, defending the accused. She is an experienced state and federal trial lawyer. The State Bar of California Board of Legal Specialization has certified Gretchen von Helms as a specialist in criminal law.

Thomas Haworth is a licensed psychologist in PA and NJ who has practiced clinically and forensically for the past 15 years. He is the past Executive Director of The Joseph J. Peters Institute, where he spent 15 years providing evaluation and treatment of sexual offenders and survivors of sexual abuse and other traumas, both adult and juvenile. As an expert witness he has been qualified in clinical and forensic psychology and issues related to sexual violence in courts across Pennsylvania and in the U.S. Federal Court since 2003.

Valerie R. McClain, Psy.D. is in private practice in Tampa, Florida, specializing in forensic psychology and neuropsychology.

Social Media and School Shootings: Predicting Threats, Preventing Violence, Preserving Freedom

Lorna Veraldi, J.D., is Associate Professor in the Department of Journalism and Media at Florida International University, Miami, FL, where she teaches media law and ethics.

Donna M. Veraldi, Ph.D., is a forensic psychologist in private practice in Billings, MT. They have collaborated on multiple presentations and publications dealing with the intersection of First Amendment law and psychological research on the relationship between speech about violence and violent behavior.

The School Shooter: What is Known about Threat Assessment

Robert Meyer Ph.D. has a 40-year history of providing mental health and psychological services in both inpatient and outpatient settings. He has developed mental health screening services and overall mental health services in correctional facilities. He has participated in classification committee meetings of correctional facilities and in the development of standards for providing mental health services both within correctional facilities and psychiatric facilities.

Dr. Meyer is licensed by the State of Illinois as a sex offender evaluator and has extensive training, practice, and experience in the assessment of violence risk and sexual risk among sexual offenders. He has testified on numerous occasions pursuant to the sexually violent persons commitment act and has conducted ongoing reassessments of sexually violent people for conditional release.

Dr. Meyer is an adjunct professor of Forensic Psychology at both Walden and Argosy Universities.

School Shootings: An Ohio County's Approach to Threat Assessment

Nicole Leisgang, Psy.D. has served as the Associate Director of ForPsych: A Forensic Psychology Practice since 2005. Under her tenure, the practice has expanded from its home base in Cincinnati to offices throughout Ohio and Indiana. In addition to her private practice, she is clinical consultant for the Hamilton County Juvenile Court. She was instrumental in creating and implementing threat assessment procedures for the Court.

What Do Laboratory Studies of Racial Bias in Shooting Tell Us? Making Sense of Conflicting Findings in the First Person Shooter Task

Carol A Vazquez, Ph.D. is on the faculty of the State University at New Paltz in New York. She studies decision making and whether interpersonal characteristics reflect evolutionary influences on cognition. She has been studying racial bias in shooting for the last two years.

Neuropsychological Test Differences Between TBI, Neurodevelopmental Disorders, and Substance-Induced Neurocognitive Disorder

Kristine M. Jacquin earned a B.S. at Northwestern University, and her M.A. and Ph.D. in clinical psychology at the University of Texas at Austin. Dr. Jacquin is a Professor of Psychology and Dean at Fielding Graduate University. She is also a licensed clinical psychologist with a consulting practice focusing on forensic and neuropsychological evaluations.

Yelina Fernandez earned a B.S. at The University of Florida, and her M.S. in Educational Leadership from Nova Southeastern University. She is a clinical psychology doctoral student at Fielding Graduate University and a researcher in the forensic neuropsychology lab of Dr. Jacquin.

Sonya McCrea earned her B.S. at George Washington University. She is a clinical psychology doctoral student at Fielding Graduate University and a researcher in the forensic neuropsychology lab of Dr. Jacquin.

Craig Crawford earned his B.A at American Public University and his M.S.W at the University of New Mexico. He is currently a clinical psychology doctoral student at Fielding Graduate University. He is a researcher in Dr. Jacquin's lab and is completing his clinical practicum at the VA Hospital located in Canandaigua, New York.

Expectations of the Court as Viewed by Attorneys and Advocates with Regard to Neuropsychological Evaluations in Motor Vehicle Accident Claims in South Africa

Henk Swanepoel, Ph.D. has worked in the personal injury contact for 20 years as a practitioner en lecturer. He has worked for several international legal firms and insurance firms and conducted Independent Medical Examinations (IME) in Kosovo, Bosnia & Herzegovina, Macedonia, Manila, Kenya, Namibia, South Africa & Uganda. Also, he has conducted several Criminal evaluations for pre-sentence report, pre-trial reports, bail applications, criminal capacity (Sex offenders, sexual abuse, homicide & fraud). He also authored the book, entitle "Disturbed - The Psyche of the Criminal" in 2017. Also, he has conducted evaluations for readmission of attorneys and worked as a family advisor and evaluator at the Family advocate Office. He is an expert Evaluator for the Health Professions Council of South Africa (HPCSA) as well as an evaluator for the South African National Defence Force and South African National Intelligence Agency. He also has conducted numerous evaluations for medical negligence.

Also he is local expert in neuropsychology as he is a senior lecturer at the Medical University of South Africa (Medunsa) and Sefako Makgatho Health Sciences University (SMU) since 2002 to present where he trains Masters degree Clinical Psychology students in neuropsychology, and psychodiagnostics At Sefako Makgatho Health Sciences University (SMU) he is also the Forensic Clinic Coordinator. He is also a senior lecturer at the University of South Africa (UNISA) lecturing postgraduate Master's degree clinical psychology students in malingering assessment, vascular diseases and neuropathology.

Attorney Margaret Setzer is employed by Elmarie de Vos Incorporated, a law firm in Vereeniging and Cape Town, South Africa. She joined the practice in 2003 and has been involved in medical negligence cases, Road Accident Fund cases as well as other professional negligence cases for the last 15-years. Her passion is to assist people who have been injured in any way possible, and particularly those whom have been in motor vehicle accidents with claims against the Road Accident Fund. Over the years she has been involved in approximately 8000 Court Cases and works closely with experts in order to establish the extent of the injuries sustained. This has given her the foundation to work closely with experts in order to establish exactly what the prognosis is; and more importantly, to explain to the Court what the findings of the experts are and the consequences of the findings.

Assessment and Treatment of Trauma- and Stressor-Related Disorders in Adult Civilian Populations

Rebecca Smith-Casey received a JD from Villanova School of Law and her PsyD in Combined School and Clinical Psychology from Kean University. Dr. Smith-Casey has experience in a wide variety of forensic settings and developed the New Jersey Competency Assessment Tool (NJ-CAT). Her research interests focus on issues pertaining to competency to stand trial, the insanity defense, and the impact special education status has in contacts with the criminal justice system. Dr. Smith-Casey presently serves as a trauma therapist and conducts psychosexual evaluations at the Joseph J. Peters Institute in Philadelphia, PA.

Evaluation of Unlikely Claims of Neuropsychological Deficits

Dr. Ines Monguio's specialties in Neuropsychology and Behavioral Medicine allow her to successfully evaluate fairly complex cases. She has been in clinical practice since 1988, and in forensic practice since 1990.

Cultural Considerations in Forensic Psychological Assessment

Dr. Baljit Atwal has been a licensed psychologist since 1996. She is a clinical and forensic psychologist and is the founder and owner of Psychology Assessment Resource Center (PARC) a psychology corporation located in Rocklin, CA. PARC provides psychological evaluations and psychotherapy for individuals, couples, and adolescents and is a CAPIC approved predoctoral and post-doctoral training site. Dr. Atwal enjoys and is passionate about mentoring and supervising prelicensure psychology trainees. Dr. Atwal provides sex offender, competency to stand trial, sentencing mitigation, immigration, and personal injury forensic evaluations. She is often retained by private attorneys and courts as a psychological expert where she provides court testimony, consultation, and forensic evaluations. Dr. Atwal specializes in using psychological testing to address forensic, educational, and treatment/diagnostic questions. Dr. Atwal has a strong interest in providing culturally competent services. She has worked as a psychologist in corrections, health care, and college settings. Dr. Atwal is a former adjunct professor and lecturer at Alliant focusing on Forensic Assessments. In addition, Dr. Atwal has served as past-chair and current commissioner of the Placer County Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Commission. She has recently been appointed as the mental health expert for the Family and Juvenile Advisory Committee for the Judicial Council of California. Dr. Atwal is a board member and president-elect of the Forensic Division of the Sacramento Valley Psychological Association.

Dr. Carol Chambers is a licensed clinical and forensic psychologist. She received her doctoral degree in clinical psychology from The Wright Institute, Berkeley, CA. She has received training through the American Academy of Forensic Psychology. She is a licensed psychologist in private practice, specializing in psychotherapy and psychological assessment throughout Northern California. She has performed over 1,700 psychological assessments, including disability evaluations, assessment of competency to stand trial, conservatorship, mental state at time of offense, suitability for behavioral health court and drug court, PTSD assessments for veterans, vocational assessments, pre-employment screening for correctional officers and personal injury evaluations. She has provided therapy and psychological assessment services in jail and community behavioral health settings, the Department of Rehabilitation, Social Security Administration, the VA, and for the Superior Court of California. She has conducted research on the effect of brain scan images on mock jurors in criminal trials. Her current research interests include social psychology, effects of pictures in the courtroom as part of testimony, and cultural considerations in forensic evaluation.

Cultural Competency: Forensic Challenges

Mark D. Ackerman, Ph.D. directs the Nicotine Addiction Treatment Program and is the Health Behavior Coordinator at the Atlanta VA Medical Center and is adjunct faculty at the Emory University School of Medicine. He is a licensed psychologist in Georgia and Florida.

Valerie R. McClain, Psy.D. is a Licensed Psychologist in Tampa, Florida who specializes in forensic psychology and neuropsychology. She testifies frequently in both state and federal court. Dr. McClain taught an online course on Cultural Competency for New York Law School and authored an article with Professor Michael Perlin on cultural competency, "Where souls are forgotten: Cultural competencies, forensic evaluations and international human rights," published in Psychology, Public Policy and Law (2009).

Drs. McClain and Ackerman have published and presented on the topic of culture, forensic psychology and immigration hardship. Dr. Ackerman has completed over 200 immigration hardship psychological evaluations over the past 5 years, while Dr. McClain's expertise includes neuropsychological testing within immigration, competency and insanity forensic cases.

Forensic Evaluation in Hardship Cases

Dr. Megan Seltz's expertise is in the evaluation of cases for immigration matters. She frequently evaluates matters of hardship that are both psychologically diverse and eclectic, and finds that each case is unique and the nature of the practice must stay up-to-date. She has over 10 years of experience as an expert psychologist in private practice in NYC. Her professional and academic background is in clinical psychology, and this guides her work.

The Forensic Psychological Evaluation in Civil Litigation

James W. Schutte, Ph.D. is a bilingual psychologist in private practice in El Paso, Texas. His practice involves psychological assessment and consultation in matters of disability, child protection, and criminal and civil litigation. He has testified numerous times in county, state, and federal courts.

Aphorisms

Marc L. Zimmerman, Ph.D., MP is in the private practice of clinical and forensic psychology in Baton Rouge, Louisiana. He has also written and presented widely in his areas of expertise, including at the American College of Forensic Psychology, and holds a Masters in Clinical Psychopharmacology (MP) degree from California School of Professional Psychology, enabling him to become a member of the first group of psychologists with prescribing privileges in Louisiana. Dr. Zimmerman has been on the Advisory Board of ACFP for several years. He has just completed his term as chairman of the Louisiana Board of Psychology Examiners.

Daniel P. Greenfield, MD, MPH, MS is in the private practice of general and forensic psychiatry, and addiction medicine in New Jersey and the tri-state area, generally, and is Clinical Professor of Neuroscience (Psychiatry) at Seton Hall University, where his main teaching is in the areas of Psychiatry, Epidemiology and Biomedical Ethics.

Edward J. Dougherty, Ed.D., is a practicing clinical and forensic psychologist in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and the founding director (in 1979) of Green Brook Academy. He has written and presented widely in his areas of expertise, including at the American College of Forensic Psychology, of which he has been an active member for many years.

A Qualitative Assessment of the Strengths and Weaknesses of the Disease/12-Step Model

William K. Marek Ph.D. was a psychologist with the Federal Bureau of Prisons for more than 20 years (now retired), and is currently in private practice and Adjunct instructor at CSU-East Bay. His areas of expertise include cognitive therapy, relapse prevention, addiction prevention. He has published articles in correctional journals and presented on topics in corrections at national conferences.

Scientific Principles of Forensic Neuropsychological Assessment

Michael J. Perrotti, Ph.D. is a member of the National Academy of Neuropsychology. He is an author of a paper on neuropsychological aspects of stimulants and depressants. He is a certified expert in neuropsychology by LA County Superior Court. He is an expert peer reviewer for the California Board of Psychology.
